

Department of Archaeology Archaeology – Undergraduate Programme
Description of the study programme	The undergraduate study programme of archaeology trains the students for the professional work in the scientific field of archaeology. It includes the introductory archaeological courses and the courses on Prehistory, Classical Antiquity, Middle Ages and New Age in Europe and Croatia, with special focus on the Adriatic and the Mediterranean area. It also introduces the scientific disciplines from other sciences, which are of essential importance for the up-to-date archaeological research.
Learning outcomes of the study programme	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- acquire the general knowledge on all the periods of human past, based on the archaeological and historical evidence;</li> <li>- acquire the general knowledge on the interdisciplinarity of the archaeological research;</li> <li>- know how to write and present the seminar on the topics related to archaeology;</li> <li>- be able to implement the basic methodology of the archaeological fieldwork research;</li> <li>- be able to perform the essential individual bibliographic research on the archaeological topics, and the synthesis of the previous achievements.</li> </ul>
List of courses offered in a foreign language in winter term (by semesters)	1. Introduction to underwater archaeology
List of courses offered in a foreign language in summer term (by semesters)	2. Museology
Description of the courses offered in a foreign language
Name of the course	Introduction to underwater archaeology
Number of ECTS credits	4	Manner of implementation of the study programme	L 1	E	S 1	Semester III or V
Description of the course	The course introduces the students to the specific area of research within the scientific field of archaeology. Although sharing the same methodology, the underwater archaeology requires specific technological equipment and diving skills. The course presents the history of the underwater archaeology in the world, the variety of underwater archaeological sites, the basic methodology and technics of underwater research, and the development of underwater archaeology in Croatia.
Learning outcomes of the course	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- acquire the general knowledge on the development and the achievements of the underwater archaeology;</li> <li>- know the history and the state of the art of the underwater archaeology in Croatia;</li> <li>- be able to describe the most important underwater archaeological sites in the world;</li> </ul>

