

Current study programmes

- ▶ Undergraduate programme Library and Information Science (6 semesters)
- ▶ Graduate programme Library and Information Science (4 semesters)
- ▶ Part-time graduate programme Library and Information Science (4 semesters)
- ▶ Postgraduate doctoral programme (6 semesters)

Three Ph.D study modules:

- Organization, preservation and use of written heritage
- Research into information needs and reading habits
- Managing of change in publishing

Revised undergraduate and graduate study programmes Information Sciences are accredited in 2014. They expand the present subjects to publishing and archival studies and replace existing LIS programmes in 2015/2016.

University of Zadar
Department of Information Sciences

- ▶ Department of Library and Information Science established in 2003; name changed to Department of Information Sciences in 2011 (OIZ)
- ▶ Undergraduate and graduate programmes in Information Science according to Bologna framework for higher education introduced in 2005/2006
- ▶ Since 2007 postgraduate programme Knowledge Society and Information Transfer
- ▶ Since 2008 postgraduate doctoral programme Knowledge Society and Information Transfer

UNIVERSITY OF ZADAR
DEPARTMENT OF
INFORMATION SCIENCES

Ul. dr. F. Tuđmana 24i, HR-23000 Zadar
Phone: +385 (0)23 345 053;
telefax: +385 (0)23 345 055

URL: <http://k.unizd.hr>
e-mail: iznanosti@unizd.hr

All graphic materials are taken from the Department's website

oliaz

Department of Information Sciences

Welcome to the dynamic field of information sciences where you will find interesting and challenging career!

Mission

We set a goal to educate students in the area of Information Sciences at the undergraduate, graduate and postgraduate studies in order to develop competencies necessary to build and manage collections and information, organize information, format and provide information services, research and analyze information needs, problems and phenomena, organize and manage information organizations and networks, participate in education, cultural projects and scientific research, and build lifelong learning student's capacities. In the area of scientific work the Department members are involved in the research projects that influence the development of theoretical thought and changes in information institutions' practice.

Department (Staff)

- ▶ Educational staff:
 - 1 full professor II
 - 2 full professors I
 - 2 associate professors (one on 20% of employment)
 - 6 assistant professors (one on 80% of employment)
 - 1 senior research assistant (PhD)
 - 1 teaching assistant (50% of employment)
 - 1 junior researcher
- ▶ Administrative staff: 1 secretary
- ▶ External associates: 1 assistant professor, 1 lecturer, 5 teaching assistants
- ▶ Visiting professors and guest lecturers (Fulbright, Erasmus, invited guests)

Vision

Our vision aims to advance the collaboration with relevant national institutions and organization in the same or related fields, to strengthen the international collaboration and joint research and systematically develop teaching activities in order to emerge as leading university department in the field of Information Science in this part of Europe, particularly in development of theoretical thought in this field as well as in areas of written heritage, user studies, publishing, applying technology in collection management, information institutions and networks.

ARHIVI,
KNJIŽNICE,
MUZEJI

Mogućnosti suradnje u okruženju
globalne informacijske infrastrukture