

CALL FOR PAPERS
at the
INTERDISCIPLINARY INTERNATIONAL SCIENTIFIC CONFERENCE

„SMALL COUNTRIES IN A GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT“

organized by DIU Libertas International University and the University of Zadar, 23rd January 2015, J. F. Kennedy 6b, Zagreb

---

The past several decades have been marked with unparalleled developments in science and technology. These developments have spurred change in every aspect of the human experience, and brought about various processes of globalization. Globalization has had different effects on large countries and small ones. The global environment in which we live offers small countries new ways of repositioning themselves in terms of economic, political, and other forms of power.

The goal of this scientific conference is to explore the possibilities and challenges connected with the position and role of small countries through various disciplines and fields such as:

- economics
- political science
- national and international security
- demographics and migrations
- tourism
- transport
- law
- psychology and sociology
- philosophy, religion, cultural research, art etc.
