Description of the courses offered in a foreign language in the academic year 2022/2023 Name of the course Economic anthropology Name of the teacher Jelena Kupsjak Number of ECTS credits 3 Teaching will be organized as Lectures Lectures Semester Description of the course will Lectures Bygs< no Consultations yes Description of the course Exercises Description of the course The course Economic Anthropology: Selected Topics provides insight into selected parts of one of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, concomic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology. 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of cconomic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethographics 3) semiarize and interpret professional and scientific activity of anthropology. 1) destinguist the basic concepts and areas	Department	Department od Ethnology and Anthropology course Jelena Kupsjak Name of the teacher Jelena Kupsjak Number of ECTS credits 3 Teaching will be organized as Lectures The courses will be organized as Exercises Description of the course swill course will anthropology. The focus of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course is on contemporary theoretical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic cultural practices, locally and globally critically interpret ethnographies summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written semiars, essays and articles present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as an lome department as an e	Description of the courses offered in a foreign language in the academic year 2022/2023
Name of the teacher Jelena Kupsjak Number of ECTS credits 3 Semester autumn/winter spring/summer Teaching will be organized as Lectures Image: spring structure Lectures Seminars Exercises Description of the course Image: spring structure Image: sprin	Name of the teacher Semester □ autumn/winter spring/summer Teaching will be organized as Lectures Elyes<	course Number of ECTS credits 3 Semester □ autumn/winter Image: spring/summer Teaching will be organized as Lectures Image: spring/summer Image: spring/summer Seminars Image: spring/summer The courses will be organized as Lectures Image: spring/summer Image: spring/summer Image: spring/summer Description of the course Image: spring/summer Image: spring/summer Image: spring/summer Image: spring/summer Description of the course The course Economic Anthropology: Selected Topics provides insight into selected parts of one of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Crotain and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) pre	Name of the	Jelena Kupsjak Number of BC13 3 Semester autumn/winter spring/summer Teaching will be organized as Lectures Image: Seminars Exercises The courses will Lectures Seminars Exercises Description of the course Image: Seminars Exercises Image: Seminars Exercises Description of the course Image: Seminars Exercises Image: Seminars Exercises Description of the course The course Economic Anthropology: Selected Topics provides insight into selected parts of one of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is of	teacher
Teaching will be organized as Lectures Image: set of the substrate of the substr	Number of ECTS	3	Semester		[ organized as Lectures Lectures Seminars Exercises The courses will be organized as Lectures Seminars Exercises Description of the course The course Economic Anthropology: Selected Topics provides insight into selected parts of one of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department I yes □ no All the incoming students I yes □ no	credits				8 Organized as Lectures Seminars Exercises be organized as Eques no yes no yes no Description of the course The course Economic Anthropology: Selected Topics provides insight into selected parts of one of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1 distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3 critically interpret ethnographies 4 recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5 summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6 present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department All the incoming students Images no All the students of the Uni	Teaching will be	Lectures			\Box no		Consultatio	na		C	X no
be organized as Image: Ima		Lectures M yes					Consultations Description of the course The course Economic Anthropology: Selected Topics provides insight into selected parts of one of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course		Lectures				rs course into selected parts of one of the subdisciplines of social and cultural anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to All the incoming students Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar Into offered to 	be organized as	∡ yes		ĭ yes □ no					yes	🗴 no anthropology. The focus of the course is on contemporary theoretical and practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students g yes □ no Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar 	Description of the	The course Economic Anthropology: Selected Topics provides insight									des insight practical directions within economic anthropology that deal with issues of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as an one department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar 	course of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally critically interpret ethnographies recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department All the incoming students yes no All the students of the University of Zadar Incoming All the students of the University of Zadar other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally critically interpret ethnographies recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department All the incoming students yes no All the students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students It he above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar		of intertwining social, economic, health, environmental, historical and other ideas. Workshop critical reading of ethnographies as well as other texts, keeping a reading diary and developing one's own argument in writing is an indispensable part of the course. Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Yes □ no Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar Interpret at the above department as an elective course Learning outcomes of the course After the completion of the course students will be able to: 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students I yes< □ no of the course 1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department All the incoming students Yes All the students of the University of Zadar All the students of the University of Zadar All the students of the University of Zadar anthropology 2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar	Learning outcomes	After the completion of the course students will be able to:
2) understand the characteristics and peculiarities of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department All the incoming students Yes no Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar	of the course	1) distinguish the basic concepts and areas of interest of economic cultural practices, locally and globally 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar All the students of the University of Zadar		1 00
 3) critically interpret ethnographies 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar Incoming students of the University of Zadar
 4) recognize the processes of permeation of culture and identity, in spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar 		cultural practices, locally and globally spatial and historical contexts 5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar All the students of the University of Zadar
5) summarize and interpret professional and scientific literature in Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar All the students of the University of Zadar Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department Image: second sec written seminars, essays and articles 6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Image: students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar Image: students of the University of Zadar Incoming students Image: student as an elective course Image: student and scientific activity of Zadar Image: student as an elective course Image: student and scientific activity of Zadar Image: student as an elective course Image: student and scientific activity of Zadar Image: student as an elective course Image: student and scientific activity of Zadar Image: student as an elective course Image: student and scientific activity of Zadar Image: student activity of Zadar		5) sur	-
6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students Image: students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course All the students of the University of Zadar All the students of the University of Zadar Incoming students Image: students of the University of Zadar		Croatian and foreign languages for the purposes of writing activity of anthropology. The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department as a home department All the incoming students X yes Yes Yes		6) present to the public in writing the professional and scientific
The course is offered to Incoming students who choose the above department Image: yes □ no All the incoming students Image: yes □ no Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course Image: yes □ no All the students of the University of Zadar Image: yes □ no offered to department as a home department Image: web sector no All the incoming students Image: web sector no Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective course Image: web sector no All the students of the University of Zadar Image: web sector no	activity of anthropology.
All the incoming students Image: students All the incoming students Image: students Students of the University of Zadar Image: students enrolled at the above department as an elective course Image: students All the students of the University of Zadar Image: students Image: students Image: student	The course is	_						Y	VAG		0
Students of the University of Zadar enrolled at the above department as an elective courseImage: second secon	offered to								yes enrolled at the above department as an elective courseImage: yes □□All the students of the University of ZadarImage: yes □□		All the incoming students						X	yes	□ n	0 elective course All the students of the University of Zadar		Students of the University of Zadar elective course All the students of the University of Zadar		5						X	yes	□ n	0
		All the students of the University of Zadar						ı ت		_	_ as an elective course								U		